EDITORIAL . . . GABRIEL BLOWS HIS HORN

NEW LOOK! (Thy Kingdom Come changed to AFSCA World Report.) Surprise! Yep, it's still us, but with a new face and format calculated to more effectively serve the larger numbers of people rapidly becoming interested in, and receptive to, this vital subject. In an effort to keep pace with the advances and expansive trends developing as a result of the highly successful First National AFSCA Convention, AFSCA is adopting an entirely new format and approach. Calculated to appeal to a larger number of people than the select, but important few, toward whom "Thy Kingdom Come" was slanted, AFSCA World Report is now designed to provide the greatest coverage possible. Now we are embarking on a new phase of activity to keep pace with an ever accelerating interest and march of progress concerning Flying Saucers and related subjects.

AFSCA World Report's new format is designed to bring to the reader the latest and most interesting thought-provoking developments on the saucer scene. Your editor intends to feature articles by some of the world's leading authorities and embracing all phases of the saucer subject.

All current AFSCA memberships and "Thy Kingdom Come" subscriptions will be honored and members will receive monthly issues of AFSCA World Report to complete the subscription to TKC. We hope you will tell your friends about the change and this newest unique publication.

With publication on a monthly basis, we'll have the advantage of being able to get more last minute news to the subscribers sooner than most bi-monthly publications in the field.

Another new AFSCA policy will permit Flying Saucer Clubs to help build up their club treasury by selling AFSCA World Report magazines and making a 40% profit. Interested clubs should send 20¢ for each copy ordered in lots of 25 or more to AFSCA. Back issues of "Thy Kingdom Come" may be obtained in quantities of 25 or more for 15¢ each.

We hope that you will like the "new look" of our new official publication and will feel that we and AFSCA are worthy of your support and recommendations to your friends.

In response to the world-wide publicity received as a result of the recent convention, AFSCA headquarters has received a flood of mail from all over the world, indicating the rapidly expanding public interest in the flying saucer subject and the progressive success of the flying saucer movement in causing better public education toward the subject with its resultant increase of interest, receptivity, tolerance, understanding, and active participation. We were able to check on many of the hundreds of stories published in this area, but in order to most accurately determine the total world-wide AFSCA influence in terms of column inches of newspaper clippings, AFSCA requests your cooperation in sending news clippings appearing in your local papers to us.

In addition to newspaper coverage, AFSCA hit the airwaves with plenty of TV and news report time, which included appearances on the Tom Duggan Show by your editor and Dan Fry; The Paul Coates Show by your editor and Kelvin Rowe; Jack Linkletter's "On The Go" Show by Daniel Fry, Dick Miller, and your editor; and George Walsh's and Pat McGinnis' "This Is Los Angeles" by George King, Dick Miller, Daniel Fry, and your editor.

Incidentally, many of the reputable people attending the convention reported seeing their contacts with outer space. Reports of this type are always most gratifying. Reinhold Schmidt and Laura Mundo (Marxer) both reported that their space contacts were in the audience during their lectures, as did several others.

The die has been cast for those of us in the Flying Saucer Movement to exert every effort toward spreading the word to all the world. This is an obligation we have undertaken by virtue of our many blessings received from the Space People. AFSCA is dedicated to helping you. Share your knowledge with those who have not had your opportunities.

AFSCA MOBILE UNIT NOW IN OPERATION STARTLES POPULACE

The first Mobile Unit known to be in existence is now in operation for AFSCA. The bus, as it is commonly referred to, is owned and operated by AFSCA Executive Vice-president, Dick Miller. Equipped with radio-telephone, the Unit can be dispatched almost immediately to the scene of activity.

The bus has been prominently lettered with AFSCA on each side and the words 'Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America'. This startling declaration has had its effect upon the motorists of Los Angeles County and, according to Miller, if he looks skyward all heads in the vicinity do likewise, which might prove the point that most of the citizenry would like to believe in the existence of flying saucers.

. . . IF YOU MISSED THE CONVENTION

The first National Convention of the Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America was unanimously acclaimed an outstanding success in every respect. The gathering of 2,000 flying saucer enthusiasts at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles, California on July 11th and 12th heard 42 speakers tell of their experiences and theories concerning the spacecraft phenomena. National and international interest in the convention was evidenced by the amount of newspaper coverage afforded the event all over the world.

The Space People were the real stars of the show with their display of spacecraft over the Pacific Ocean on the morning of Saturday, July 11th. Pan American Airways pilot Captain George Wilson, 43, of Seattle, Washington, a 19-year flying veteran was in command of a DC-7C from San Francisco to Honolulu when he spotted the UFO's at 6 a.m. PDT, "...one intensely bright light followed by four smaller lights." Captain Wilson stated: "My co-pilotand flight engineer.....stared open-mouthed as the light came toward us at an extremely high rate of speed.....," His account further stated: "Suddenly the object made a sharp right turn at a speed inconceivable of any vehicle we know of and the light suddenly disappeared. The smaller lights were evenly spaced and were either part of the mysterious object or this was an example of darned good formation flying."

Wilson was, according to wire service reports, visibly shaken by the encounter. He said he had never believed such objects existed, but added, "I'm a believer now." Four other aircraft in the area also sighted the UFO's.

The timing of the sighting with the Convention couldn't have been better. Untold numbers of Sunday newspapers carried reports of the UFO's side by side with reports of AFSCA's convention.

No complete tally of the publicity generated by the convention has been made, but AFSCA officials estimate 100 news stories in Los Angeles County alone and a world-wide total possibly ranging into the thousands. Clippings have been received from all over the United States and many foreign countries to date.

THE DICK MILLER STORY

By Mark Smith

Dick Miller at AFSCA Headquarters with electronic equipment with which many short-wave space communications have been recorded.

PART I

(Ed. note: With this edition of AFSCA World Report, Part I of the Dick Miller Story is presented. This outstanding young man in the field of space phenomena has experienced many of the events that the peoples of the world in general talk about, yet their limited and narrow concepts of the existence of life beyond this planet deprives them of the fullness of knowledge afforded those, such as Miller, who are willing to accept the authenticity of their own experiences and the experiences of others. As in any new movement, there are those who, through lack of self-government, are tempted to exploit their own experiences into fantastic dreams. They are completely sincere in their efforts and AFSCA would be the last to deny them their right of self-expression. The Dick Miller Story is not a figment of imagination, but an account of one man, who through his sincere desire to be of service, found himself experiencing one of the most heart-warming events ever afforded modern man.)

It was early in the month of January 1948, during a time when I was serving in the United States Air Force at Scott Field, Illinois. It was a bright and cheerful day with just a touch of the coming Spring apparent in the air. Certainly a day which was destined to change my entire life. A day that I would never forget. A day which others would like to forget, but can't.

TO MEN OF EARTH

Greetings to you, the people of Earth. I am known among my people by the name Korton. I am from the planet which you call Mars, but which in our language is called Masar. I am in charge of a communications network, which relays information from our planet, either directly or by means of relaying it through our space craft, which your people have named flying saucers. I wish to introduce to your people another, who is called Voltra. Voltra is from the planet which you call Venus. One moment.

Greetings, people of Earth. I am called Voltra, as my brother Korton mentioned, and I take this time to extend to all of the people on the planet Earth the greetings of all of us whom you have seen in your skies, and what you have called flying saucers, but which in reality are space craft.

Now, my friends, for you, the people of Earth, are our friends, perhaps you have asked why we are visiting your planet. I will try to answer this in a way which you will understand. All of my remarks to you at this time I shall try and make readily understandable by your language concepts.

We are visiting your planet for several very important reasons. We are interested in the advancement your scientists have made in the field of nuclear energy. We have in the past witnessed other planets where this power of nature was discovered, and used, oftentimes constructively for the benefit of those people. More often, however, it has been used as a means of destruction, as a means of gaining power - power over other people. This, my friends, is the situation as we have observed it on your planet. It has been used as a club over the heads of all your peoples. Little have your scientists really known what they were toying with. The results of these radiations which are now present in your atmosphere in large quantities, from the atomic tests which you have conducted, and which caused this great amount of radiation. This radiation is very destructive, and in many ways. It can cause an increase in the number of cases dealing with various forms of insanity. It has rather disturbing effects upon your circulatory system, particularly the veins, and also the heart. The other effect is the gradual poisoning of your systems by contamination of foods which you eat and consume. This, my friends, is not a healthy condition.

We have a device which we have used many times since the year 1947 of your time, and that device is what has been popularly called a green fireball. This green fireball is a scientific device of our making, which is capable of neutralizing dangerous amounts of radiation in your atmosphere. Your scientists will confirm what I am saying when I mention that there are eddy currents in your atmosphere, much like those which exist along your shore-lines, where the water reaches certain bays and inlets, and therefore is restricted in its travel, and accumulates all manner of debris. Your atmosphere contains similar conditions. The debris most harmful to you at this time is atomic residue radiation.

That is one main reason why we have visited your planet. Another reason is the fact that in the devices which you have called hydrogen bombs, which really are not hydrogen bombs, you have come very close several times to completely annihilating and disintegrating your entire planet. On both of these occasions we have been forced to neutralize those devices. This we did for two reasons, one - to save your planet from annihilation, and to keep the effects of such an annihilation from affecting other planets within your solar system. The cataclysmic changes which would be present in the structure of your solar system, and ours, would be tremendous if we were to lose your planet in such a manner, so you can see we are much interested in this matter of nuclear achievements that you have made.

Shortly, due to outside cosmic influences which are upsetting even at this moment your planet's natural axis, there are going to be rather severe topographical changes in your geography. Certain land areas are going to be covered by water. Certain areas which are now covered by water will be uncovered, and be land areas. At this time also, if by our means we are not able to prevent it, your earth will change its north and south poles, or, as you have a means of expressing it, flip on its axis. This, of course, would result in

OUTSTANDING PERSONALITIES — GEORGE HUNT WILLIAMSON By Cleve Twitchell

George Hunt "Ric" Williamson, esteemed anthropologist and flying saucer lecturer, is back from his latest Peruvian excursion for another U.S. lecture tour. This series is built around a city in Bolivia that is said to have existed under a now extinct moon; different from the satellite which circles the Earth today.

The public lecture entitled "The City That Existed Before the Moon" is being offered along with a more advanced talk, "Coming World Changes", which is for inner circle groups and, according to Williamson, contains information he had previously kept quiet, but now has decided to reveal.

The ancient city is TIAHUANACO, located at the Altiplane of Bolivia, 12,600 feet above sea level. Here more than 2 miles above sea level are found remains of tropical fish and the ruins of the city show signs of having been under water for many years! Also found nearby are remains of wharfs and seashore constructions and skeletons of men buried side by side with those of an ancient animal species previously thought to exist ages before the dawn of man on Earth.

The fantastic story he develops, and it is backed up by scientific volumes to be found in most libraries, is that the city once existed at sea level over 100,000 years ago under another moon that was spiraling in on the Earth on a collision course.

Markings on the ruins of Tiahuanaco are said to show that some of the inhabitants of the city knew of its impending doom and had drawn up a calendar in the stone, calculating the approach of the satellite.

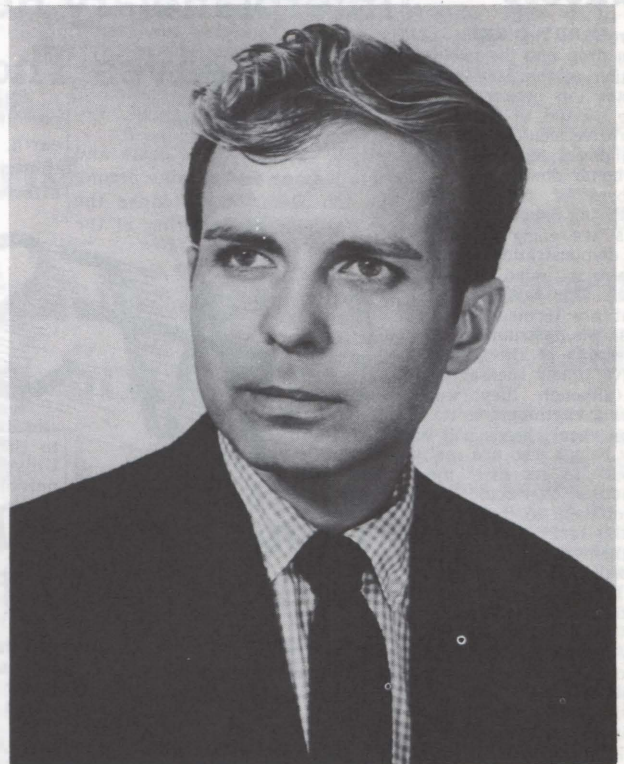

As the moon approached Earth, Williamson surmises, its gravitational pull caused all the waters on the planet to gather in a belt around the equator. Tiahuanaco, an island in the rising belt of water, was eventually buried by the seas as the waters grew higher and higher.

Years later, he continues, the moon grew so close to the Earth that it shattered into pieces and collided with our planet. With the gravitational pull of the moon no longer in effect, the waters which had stockpiled around the equator were released, and they flowed back over the entire surface of the planet causing a flood. Coupled with the collision-caused earthquakes and upheavals, the flood caused widespread devastation. Was it perhaps the Biblical flood?

Previous to their research at Tiahuanaco, Williamson and his wife, Miche, journeyed to Lake Titicaca to do research on the Uros Indians, who claim to have been on Earth "before God placed man here". The Uros people live on islands in the lake, islands they constructed themselves.

Also explored by Ric were temples at Machu Picchu in the Andes which he believes were actually used for experiments in solar energy.

Another purpose of his trip was to find ruins referred to by the late M.K. Jessup in his book "The Expanding Case for the UFO". Ric went to Florida to see Jessup earlier this year but arrived three days after his death. He was able to find the location of Jessup's findings in Peru however, with the help of some notes he had previously received from the well-known researcher, Ric is dedicating the current lecture tour in Jessup's memory. Earth Men Meet to Air Saucers

By LARRY O'NEIL

If you drop into the two-day convention at the Statler Hilton Hotel this weekend, you may be treated to an out of this world version of "Lay that A-bomb down, Earthman, lay that A-bomb down."

Members of the Amalgamated Flying Saucers Clubs of America are going to put on several demonstrations of what they claim is "mind to mind" reception. The earthlings will be what are termed "receivers, channels, instruments" for other tenants of the universe who have timely messages to bring (although they won't really sing anything).

Human vocal chords will be used by beings who are really "way out" to get their messages across. You could hardly expect them to throw their voices this far.

And their messages, if they go according to form, will be for us backward earth dwellers to knock off all those noisy nuclear tests. Not that they're grouchy neighbors, it's for our own good.

The above are the assertions of Gabriel Green, head of the Los Angeles Interplanetary Study Group.

"Volumes of information have been learned in contact with flying saucer people. They repeatedly have warned that atomic testing produces radiation harmful to present and all future generations," he said.

"There's the possibility of a true hydrogen explosion that would completely disintegrate our planet, which has occurred in other planets in our solar system, they tell us. They're on a peaceful mission to help us help ourselves," Green states. "There are other dangers they tell us of that their advanced technology could help us avert. They say our planet is going through a new cycle and we are coming to an area in the cosmos wherein lies destruction."

Flying Saucer Fans Gathering To Tell Out of This World Tales

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (UPI).

—Mars, Saturn, Jupiter, and Pluto resounded like the names of easily visited vacation spots as a band of interplanetary name-droppers got together at the convention of the Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America.

An explorer who had penetrated the darkest reaches of darkest Africa would have no more standing in this gathering than a Brooklynite bragging about a Sunday trip to Coney Island.

This is space, man! And these are spacemen, astronauts who tell wondrous tales of trips to outer space which relegate the satellite programs of the United States and Russia to the horse-and-buggy days of research.

At a pre-convention press conference yesterday, a number of what these flying saucer fans call "contactees" gave a hint of what was to come in the two-day formal discussions.

Take Kelvin Rowe, a 51-year-old bulldozer operator for the state division of forestry from San Jacinto, Calif. He rates the title of A-No. 1 contactee because by his own assertions he has been contacted by space people and taken for a ride in the universe no less than 350 times.

Most of his contacts, Mr. Rowe said, have been with people from Jupiter and Pluto who drop in on him frequently, drive him in a conventional automobile to a designated spot where they all climb into a flying saucer of small dimensions. The small saucer takes them into the air to a rendezvous with a mother ship which Mr. Rowe calls "a spanner." Then they crank up the engines and off they go into the wild blue-yonder, circling Jupiter and Pluto and other planets but never landing to give the Earthling a close-up.

Rowe said his space friends were "no more different than you or I or the rest of us" in clothing or speech. He added that the space women he met were "real beauties." He said his friend instructed him in "an ancient wisdom" and discussed reincarnation which, he said, "they know for a fact."

Take Daniel Fry, an El Monte, Calif., engineer who, somewhat dazzled by greater feats of Mr. Rowe and others, said he made a fast round-trip in a spaceship from another world from White Sands, N. M., to New York City in half an hour. The saucer hit about 8,000 miles an hour, according to Mr. Fry who, somewhat abashed, commented:

"As a matter of fact, I'm pretty much out of my class here."

Convention Director Gabriel Green said he expected possibly 1,000 delegates to the convention from "all over" the United States and from England and Canada.

Flying Saucer Clubs to Gather Here July 11-12

A convention sponsored by the Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America will be held at the Statler Hilton July 11-12. An attendance of more than 3,000 persons from all over the world is expected. Many "contactees" will relate their experiences with flying saucers. Registrations may be made through AFSCA, 2004 N Hoover St.

Have No Fear of Spacemen, Parley Told

If you've been losing sleep over the possibility of a hostile invasion from outer space, stop worrying.

A leading light of the flying saucer spotters brushed aside that idea yesterday on the theory that our space neighbors obviously have nothing to gain by conquering our backward culture—although they could if they wanted to.

That comforting appraisal came from Daniel W. Fry, star of one of the most sensational of unidentified flying objects sightings and head of Crescent Engineering in El Monte.

Fry, who claims he walked right up to a parked flying saucer at White Sands, N.M., in 1950 and communicated with it, was a principal speaker at the opening of the first national convention of the Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America at the Statler-Hilton.

He told the more than 1000 delegates that "leaders are always a minority group" and that the sneers of disbelievers are "the penalty you must pay for trying to change the status quo."

The delegates included a former resident of the planet Tythan, now living in Ana-

SAUCER BELIEVERS AIDED FROM SPACE

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two-thousand flying saucer believers returned to their homes and earth today following the first annual convention of the Amalgamated Flying Saucers Club of America (AFSCA).

Most of the final session of the two-day convention turned to the more practical business of running the earth, but the speakers said they were receiving their advice on how this should be done from "space people."

"They have expressed interest in our work and said they would do this to draw attention to our gathering. They did not say in advance just how or when they would demonstrate their existence."

George King, chairman of the Aetherius Society of London, related to the delegates a transmission he said he received from space people described as "Mars, Section Six." He said the transmission lasted 25 minutes and contained advice on how earthlings should change their ways of life.

He said the space people told him the earth was capable of producing everything needed to make life ideal but that it would be necessary to do away with the various money systems. He said that with no money system and under an economy of plenty for everyone wars would cease to be even thought of and atomic weapons would fall by the wayside.

The seven U.S. astronauts trained to probe the mysteries of space could have taken the short course by attending the Flying Saucer Club convention here over the week end.

They would have met at least 45 persons who have either traveled in space ships or who have been in constant communication with inhabitants of other planets.

They could have interviewed Prince NEascom and Princess NEgonna, who said they lived for centuries on the planet Tythan before they came to earth 31 years ago.

The prince and princess told 2,000 persons at the convention that they made the trip to earth in a ship 6,300 miles in circumference with 63 million passengers aboard. They had to admit it was

My duties were light at the time and I walked into the operations room at the field to see what was going on. As I entered the door I was immediately confronted with a vibration of intense excitement. Those present in the room were listening to an account being radioed over the main radio communication network, linking various air bases in that sector. This account was originating from a plane flown by Capt. Charles Mantell, who was on a routine training flight from Godman Air Force Base, in Kentucky. Capt. Mantell was busy giving a description of his chase of an unidentified flying object, which he had spotted while on his way back to the base.

I can vividly remember standing there listening to this account while around me others displayed a look of sheer amazement written on their faces. My own heart pounded with the excitement of the phenomena taking place many miles away and thousands of feet in the air. The time was 3:05 in the afternoon. Mantell said, "I've sighted the thing. It's metallic and it's tremendous in size!" He paused, "the thing's starting to climb." At 3:10 he spoke again. "It's climbing still higher. It's twelve o'clock high, making half my speed. I'll try to close in." At 3:15 Mantell again reported his progress. "It's still above me, making my speed or better. I'm going up to twenty thousand feet. If I'm no closer, I'll abandon chase." Three minutes later he reported. His last statement has never before been released to the public and is, in my opinion, by far his most important one. Capt. Mantell hesitated and then spoke rapidly into his microphone: "My God.....I see people in this thing....." Then there was silence. That was all that was ever heard spoken again by the Captain. His death was not announced until later that day by the authorities at Godman Air Force base.

As a great many know, Capt. Mantell's death has never been satisfactorily explained. Many theories were advanced from as many sources as to what the Captain was pursuing and how he met his death. I consider myself fortunate in being one of the few persons ever to actually listen to his amazing pursuit.

I am a curious person and since this event occurred, I have never fully accepted the claims that it was all an accident. Since then and up to the time of an experience which happened to myself, which to anyone might seem far more fantastic, I studied everything I could about these elusive flying objects. The event of Capt. Mantell's death constantly goaded me on to study anything and everything connected with these Space Craft, which have been seen so often and have been so positively identified by competent observers.

Naturally, I read many things which I found difficult to believe, yet on the other hand, they were reported by completely reliable sources. I determined that I would keep an open mind and not criticize or ridicule any person or report I happened to hear or read. I believe that this one factor conditioned me for an experience that has since placed me in the position of being subject to many trying circumstances. Yet, the compensation for my efforts has been more than any amount of money could buy and the future reward will, I know, provide me with an enlightened understanding of Truth which, in my opinion, completely justifies all the unpleasantness which is now associated with a belief in the so-called flying saucers.

My main field of interest has always been electronics and associated subjects from which I also make my living. Many times the thought had occurred to me during the intervening years that it might be possible to communicate with these Space Craft which persisted in being viewed by competent people around the world. However intriguing this thought appeared to be, I found it difficult to pursue such an effort in place of earning a living.

It wasn't until the summer of 1954 that I finally did find the time. I had read an article in the newspaper telling of a lecture by George Williamson on Space Communication. Frankly, I was amazed to hear that someone claimed they had contacted the Space Craft. Naturally, I attended the lecture which set me to thinking seriously that if communication had been accomplished once, why not again? It was a gamble to be sure, but anything which really might prove useful has always been a gamble. After the lecture I had an opportunity to speak with Mr. Williamson, whom I learned had published an account of his association with the group which had received the contacts by radio. We talked for a while about the methods used by the group he worked with and then I mentioned that in the near future I might have a chance to do some experimenting myself. He was extremely interested and helpful and expressed a desire for me to contact him if I obtained any results.

During the next few months I often thought about how I might go about establishing contact. There were a great many pitfalls that had to be avoided in attempting any contact via short-wave or regular radio. Perhaps the most serious one was the fact that you need a license issued by the Government to transmit any kind of intelligence by way of radio. Plus the fact that even licensed operators were not allowed to contact unlicensed stations. The obvious was clear in this case, certainly the Space Craft were not recognized as licensed by our Government. The only thing that the ordinary citizen could do was listen in on his radio receiver in the hopes that he might overhear a communication from one of these Craft. This I did for several weeks whenever I had a spare moment. Unfortunately, the reward was not there - I didn't hear a thing that even with the wildest stretch of the imagination could be construed as a message from space.

During this interim of earnest endeavor to contact the unknown beyond the realm of our Earth, my faith in what I had read and heard from the lips of men upon this planet was taxed to its fullest extent. I suppose this faith could be likened to the person who is suddenly converted to a religious faith. He has accepted wholeheartedly the concept of an omnipotent power and, therefore, when the 'chips are down' he expects some proof of the belief be manifested immediately. Unfortunately it doesn't work quite in this manner. The All in which we believe can only come through to those who remove the doubt and barrier created by us. I found myself working harder to remove doubt than to communicate. As I sat at the radio one evening, the thought of actually contacting a Space Craft was a very remote thing in my mind. Suddenly it happened.

It was a typical Autumn evening and I had decided to take a drive out into the country about thirty-five miles from Detroit. Most of the week, several friends and myself had been occupied in experimenting with short-wave receiving equipment mounted in an automobile. My partner in business, Don, and I were in one car, while my two young friends Pete and Jim were in the other car. On this particular night we were testing out a device that helped eliminate static on the radio. We had driven out in the vicinity of Ann Arbor, Michigan, which is a wooded and hilly section, and were parked off the road in an old cemetery, where we often came to set up our telescope and watch the stars, since no one ever bothered us, and were busy testing the equipment when we came across an unusual radio signal. We had been checking the receiver on the 10-meter band, and in making several adjustments had tuned the short-wave set to the 11-meter band. There to our surprise we found an extremely loud and powerful radio signal accompanied by a loud hollow sounding tone. We listened for several seconds. We called to Pete and Jim, who were in their car, to see if they heard this signal also. About this time, the signal and tone ceased, and a voice, almost tenor in range, speaking in cultured English said, "Gentlemen.....We estann your presence. Many serials have been gapped in order for us to speak with you. We have a knowledge of your group, we have a representative among you, our intentions towards you are friendly. If you continue to listen on this wave length in the future, we will have further messages for you." After this amazing statement, we were so excited that little attention was given to the balance of the message.

For the next few days all was quiet. In our every spare moment we listened to the radio in hopes of receiving another message. Then on September 15, 1954, 10:30 P.M., 11-meters, a voice communication was again received.

While in Florida, Ric photographed a scenic area located there composed of rock sculptures made by a European refugee who "wanted to get away from the world". The man was a sensitive individual, he said, and believed in life on other planets. To paraphrase his point, one of his sculptures was a ball representing Mars, with a planet growing out of it. As the story goes, Williamson reveals, it is said that the man never allowed anyone to watch him work. When giant slabs of rock were brought to him by truck, he would send the drivers away for 5 minutes. When they returned, he would have the truck unloaded, yet he was a frail man weighing only 97 pounds. When asked how he did it, the man was said to answer something to the effect of "well, let's just say I've discovered how the Great Pyramid was built."

Ric and Miche arrived in the Los Angeles area late in August. Ric spoke in Santa Ana on August 28, El Monte on August 29 and in Los Angeles August 30 on "The City That Existed Before the Moon", and at Dan Fry's West Covina home on August 31 on "Coming World Changes". The latter talk was also given in Pasadena on September 3.

His coming schedule of appearances includes the following:

PASADENA, Calif.	Thursday, Sept. 10, at 7:30 PM. Odd Fellows Hall, Los Robles at Walnut, "The City That Existed Before the Moon".

He is currently serving as head of the Department of Anthropology at Great Western University in San Francisco, California.

COMING EVENTS

Next month's issue of AFSCA World Report will include the second part of the 'Dick Miller Story' which will explain how Miller was introduced rather mysteriously to the light beam apparatus by which communication with space visitors is accomplished.

Don't miss the article dealing with the description of a revolutionary apparatus capable of adjusting the forces of unbalance which exist in the human body. The design of this equipment was sent to Earth by a space friend known as MUR-KU.

The latest scientific accomplishments will be featured and also some rather astounding prophecies which, if true, can provide much food for mental thought.

Gloria Lee's "Why We Are Here" will be the book review featured in the Book Corner section of AFSCA World Report.

A COMING AGE OF LEISURE AND PLENTY

I see a world in which machines have replaced the drudgery of human toil, where daily needs are free to all, where each will joyfully do his share of work and where exploitation, unemployment and poverty will be no more.

A world of Super - men, without disease of flesh or mind, where culture reigns supreme.

A world without law or crime or jail, where all will have full freedom to express themselves, and where none infringe the equal rights of others.

A world free from fear and superstition, where all will have knowledge to guide their lives by wisdom and the passion to serve the common good.

A world at peace, where brotherly love has replaced man's inhumanity to man, and where nation strives with nation only in culture and in human progress.

An almost workless paradise, right here on earth for our Children's children, replacing the dream of eternal repose in heaven after death.

complete catastrophe. The surface of your planet's civilization, as you now know it, would be completely demolished. This we do not wish to happen, therefore, by means of our science, of which your scientists can only dream, we are attempting to thwart this happening. We would prevent, if at all possible, such conditions.

I wish to state that we have an organization of many, many planets, and of many solar systems, of a number far too large to count of various galaxies. We have a type of organization which we call the Universal Confederation. This is a form of government. However, each member of this Confederation is allowed perfect freedom as long as its ultimate efforts are aimed at the service it can render to those about it who need it. We have certain regulations to abide by, much in the same manner as you have certain laws. These regulations we have in a book - yes, we have books also - we have in a book containing the galactic pax, which in actuality is a record book containing these regulations. We do not chance to disobey these rules which we, upon a majority decision, have formulated, since they are for the good of all of us. No one individual solar system, planet, star, or galaxy is shown preference within our code. All are equal, and yet we have many, many civilizations, some much more advanced than those we know. By this I mean a civilization we have at present upon the planet you call Venus is not as highly progressed as that civilization which is now ruling on the nearby planet of the star you call Procyon. There is a civilization which, in our terminology, could be considered half a million years ahead of even ours. By your standards, I might mention that we of Venus are perhaps only five thousand years in advance of your science. This, people of Earth, does not entitle us to become egotistical in dealing with your people, because after all, given the same educational advancements, the same knowledge, you are entirely as intelligent as we. We have only the advantage of a more advanced educational means.

I should add, also, that our intentions toward you, the people of Earth, are entirely friendly. We have no wish to take over your government - to rule your people. We have quite enough of our own problems to contend with. We wish only to be able to share with you in the future certain scientific techniques and certain cultural advancements, and educational advancements. Your achievements in evolution and technology have almost reached a point where this is possible. Soon your people will be entitled to membership.

We of the Universal Confederation maintain a constant surveillance of your planet. We have millions of our craft within 10,000 miles of your surface. This you may find hard to believe. I do not believe so, though, when I mention that on just our planet alone, which is Venus, we have over 10 million space craft. If you will add up the number available in the solar system, you would have close to five hundred million, so you see, we really have only a few ships concerned with your immediate problem.

There are people in space who are not friendly. I mention this only to say to you that not all people who are space people have your best interests at heart. There are certain planets, and there are galaxies which contain people which we would term hostile, and of course, in view of their activities, we feel you would call in a like manner. These people have achieved various forms of space travel. They have attained ingress to your planet in the past, and can still do so. I might add, though, that we watch their craft whenever they are found in this area of space. We try to keep track of their activities - more often, we are successful. Being only human, sometimes we are not.

I wish to say to you that those people whom you have observed in ships in your atmosphere are entirely physical human beings. They are men and women very much like yourselves. We are capable of landing at any time upon your surface. Soon, however, when certain conditions do exist upon your surface in various forms of government and in various sociological changes, our landing will be imminent. We will step from our craft and extend to you, the people of Earth, friendship. We ask nothing of you in return, only that we be friends. We wish to exchange with you information. If, in the near future, after the landings have been accomplished, you wish to enter into commerce, or trade with our people, that would be highly desirable and could no doubt be arranged. I would mention also that we have not at any time committed an overt act of aggression towards your people.

We have not deliberately caused any accidental crash, or committed any happenings which could be construed as destructive. We wish you to know this, that is why we are stating it.

And now, my friends, I find I must leave you. I shall return again, however, and speak with you. Soon, very soon, we hope to have the opportunity to greet you in a manner which will forever dispel any doubts which you might have concerning our intentions, for you see, my friends, we who are your brothers in space have a common allegiance with you. We have many, many topics which we feel would be of great interest to your peoples, and in the very near future, we will see that these topics are presented to you.

Now, I must leave. I extend to all of you, you who are the people of Earth, our greetings. I am Voltra. Adonai, Vassu, my brothers.

DICK MILLER APPOINTED TO AFSCA STAFF

Dick Miller, whose story appears on page 5, has been appointed to serve as Executive Vice-president of AFSCA. Miller has for many years been associated in an executive and administrative capacity with the Solar Cross Foundation. He has investigated space communication since 1954. He has served as an electronics consultant and recording supervisor in the business world. He is ranked as an authority on space communication and enjoys the privilege of being a channel for many of the Space People through the medium of short-wave broadcasts.

YOU, TOO, CAN HELP THE SAUCER MOVEMENT

Everyone can participate and be helpful in some way to help this cause, Help to pass "The Word". Urge your friends to join and help to support AFSCA, and send us names and addresses of persons you know to be interested in flying saucers. We will send them a complimentary issue of TKC. Your letters, questions, comments, ideas, flying saucer photos, press clippings, notice of address changes, and suggestions are sincerely solicited, although we may not be able to answer you personally other than by way of this bulletin. Let us hear from you. We'll be "Up In The Air" until we do!
